Fund Managers

Margaret Lawson

Colin McLean

In the six months to 30 June 2008, SVM UK100 Select Fund gained 1.0%. This represents a significant outperformance relative to the FTSE 100 Index which fell 10.8% and the broader FTSE All-Share Index which fell more than 11%. Performance over the period was helped by the Fund's emphasis on resources, its relatively low exposure to financials and consumer cyclicals, and also by good results from a number of businesses in more difficult sectors that beat expectations. These included Compass Group, Morrison Supermarkets, Invensys and Man Group.

The best individual performances were in Tullow Oil and Randgold Resources. Since the period end, profit has been taken in a number of the mining investments, bringing the portfolio exposure to the sector down to a market average exposure, but focusing on major diversified mining groups. BG Group and Tullow Oil reported good drilling results, but some profit has also been taken in the Fund's oil investments.

Although many major banks have raised finance to repair their balance sheets after losses, we believe that difficult credit conditions will persist into 2009. Accordingly, the Fund is maintaining a defensive stance, focusing on businesses that we believe should prove resilient against this background. These include pharmaceuticals, utilities and tobacco, in addition to selected oil & gas businesses with strong drilling programmes.
